5. [redacted] Following up on his inquiry on behalf of [redacted] who has filed an application for employment with the Agency, I advised Mr. Vince Rakestraw, Legislative Assistant to Senator William B. Saxbe (R., Ohio), that [redacted] had in fact been interviewed by one of our people [redacted] that he had made a very favorable impression, and that his file was being actively considered in connection with the Career Training Program. I told him we would keep him advised of action taken on [redacted] application. 25X1A

6. [] Yesterday I got from Alex Schnee, in the office of Congressional Relations, Department of State, a run down on the support that State had been able to line up on the Dominick amendment to S. 3390.

Subsequently, I spoke with Cheryl Klein, in Senator Dominick's office, in response to her earlier request to Mr. Cary. I told her that we thought there were at least 42 votes for the Dominick amendment, broken down as follows: 15 Senators or their offices had so advised us directly, another 13 had so advised State, and another 14 on the basis of the vote for the Sparkman amendment on the international agreements question. I told her we had run into only a handful of nay's.

7. [] Today the Senate adopted a compromise amendment by Senator Dominick which removes the troublesome features from a provision of S. 3390 which would have inhibited the use of Third Country Nationals in Laos, Thailand or North Vietnam. Messrs. Cary

[] were standing by to provide Senator Dominick and the other co-sponsors and their staffs whatever additional information they might need. The Dominick/Case compromise survived an extensive colloquy between Symington and Fulbright and an attempt by Senator Fulbright to vote down the compromise. Following the vote we met with several of the staff personnel who had worked with us on the matter including Cheryl Klein, from Senator Dominick's office, Robert Mosbacher, from Senator Baker's office, and John Goldsmith, Senate Armed Services, and thanked them for their efforts.
